UBC Arts Co-op School of Information
Student of the Year Award 2022/2023

The Arts Co-op Program has created a Student of the Year Award for co-op students at the UBC School of Information. Two annual awards of $1,000 are available: one to an MLIS or Dual student (who used their MLIS background on the co-op job) and the other to an MAS or Dual student (who used their MAS background on the co-op job). These awards are for work terms completed during Fall 2022 (September-December 2022), Winter 2023 (January-April 2023), or Summer 2023 (May-August 2023) term. Please note that a student cannot apply for both the MLIS and MAS awards during the same competition year. Previous winners may not apply again.

These annual awards recognize outstanding achievement in all aspects of the UBC School of Information co-op student’s performance, including academics, the workplace, and professional/community involvement. The awards will be given by the Associate Dean of Arts, Students, based on the advice of the UBC Arts Co-op’s School of Information Advisory Committee and will be noted on the award recipients' transcripts.

Selection Criteria for the Award

The UBC Arts Co-op’s School of Information Student of the Year Award Committee, a subset of the UBC Arts Co-op’s School of Information Advisory Committee, will use the criteria listed below to evaluate candidates. Nominees are scored initially on a scale of 100 points; the value of each criterion is indicated in brackets. The committee is seeking well-rounded candidates who show evidence of accomplishment in academics, the workplace, their co-op community, and professional/community activities. Points will be awarded on the quality of each component.

Student’s Personal Statement (25 points):
- Student’s career, personal, and academic experiences have been enhanced by co-op.
- Student has been able to demonstrate the relevance of their studies to the workplace and vice versa.

Job Achievement / Employer Evaluation (25 points):
- Student has received an exemplary evaluation on their performance for the co-op work term for which they are being nominated.

Note: The co-op employer representative chosen by the student must be for a co-op work term in the academic year for which the student is being nominated (September 2022 to August 2023).

Academic Standing (0 points; minimum cumulative GPA of 75% required to be eligible for the award):
- Student has maintained good academic standing within their current UBC School of Information degree program.

Please note the minimum GPA requirement to apply is 75% due to UBC Senate GPA award requirements.

Contribution to Arts Co-op Community (10 points):
- Student has contributed to the Arts Co-op community, particularly within the academic year for which the student is being nominated. For instance, the student has:
  - Acted as an ambassador by participating in public presentations for the Arts Co-op Program during student recruitment information sessions or other Arts Co-op Program events, such as the Arts Co-op iSchool January Conference.
  - Acted as a mentor to other co-op students.

Professional Development Activities and Engagement in UBC School of Information Community and/or Other Communities (10 points):
- Student has contributed to the UBC School of Information student community and/or other communities, particularly within the academic year for which the student is nominated. For example, the student has:
  - Been active in the Library and Archives Students’ Association as an executive member, team member, or volunteer
  - Student has engaged in professional development activities. For example, the student has:
    - Volunteered or participated in BCLA or AABC committees, events, or other professional activities
    - Been a member of professional associations such as:
      - American Library Association
      - Archives Association of British Columbia
      - ARMA International
      - Art Libraries Society of North America
      - Society of American Archivists
      - Special Libraries Association
      - Vancouver Association of Law Libraries
      - Association of Canadian Archivists
    - Been published in professional organizations’ or co-op employers’ newsletters, journals, etc.
    - Attended and/or presented at conferences related to their iSchool degree program
    - Attended workshops or tours related to their iSchool degree program

Final Work Term Capstone Assignment and Portfolio Pieces (25 points):
- Student has produced a high-quality final co-op work term capstone assignment and included other noteworthy, relevant portfolio pieces from the work term.
- Student has received a “Pass” for all co-op work term assignments and for the co-op work term for which they are being nominated
- Student’s employer has reviewed the student’s co-op work term capstone assignment and indicated this on their UBC Arts Co-op School of Information Student of the Year Award 2022/2023 Employer Nomination Form.

Note: Assignments marked as confidential will only be read by the Arts Co-op staff member on the Adjudication Committee, not the entire committee.

Reviewer’s Discretion (5 points):
- Student’s application is of an overall outstanding quality that goes beyond the above categories.

Adjudication Process

The UBC Arts Co-op's School of Information Student of the Year Adjudication Committee, a subset of the UBC Arts Co-op's School of Information Advisory Committee, will meet annually in the spring or fall to review all nomination packages and decide on the award recipients. Selection is based on co-op, academic, and extra-curricular accomplishments for the previous academic year. The sub-committee will be composed of employer, UBC School of Information and Arts Co-op representatives and should total 3-5 members. The award recipients will be announced in January 2024 and will be featured in Faculty of Arts and/or UBC-related communication materials, as well as relevant professional organizations’ communications as appropriate.

Nomination Process

Either the co-op student or the student’s co-op employer may initiate this process.

Note: In either case, the student is responsible for gathering and submitting their complete nomination package, apart from the employer nomination form and letter, which should be submitted directly from the employer to the Arts Co-op Office.

Nomination Packages:

Nomination packages must include the following items, sent in electronic format (1 PDF, including the URL for the student's video assignment if applicable – i.e., YouTube, Dropbox, etc.) in the following order:

1. Student’s signed personal statement in the form of a letter to the iSchool Co-op Student of the Year Adjudication Committee (2 pages max., 1-inch margins, 10-point font min., standard business letter format)
2. Student’s current academic transcript, showing the student's calculated cumulative average (unofficial copy from SSC is suitable)
3. Student’s current resume (2 pages max., 1-inch margins, 10-point font min.), including professional development activities, and contributions to the Arts Co-op Community, UBC School of Information student community and/or other community involvement
4. Student’s final work term capstone assignment (video, presentation, poster, report, or e-portfolio) for the term for which the student is being nominated and other relevant portfolio pieces from the work term. Other co-op assignments and the completed student evaluation form are NOT required.
5. Completed UBC Arts Co-op School of Information Student of the Year Award 2022/2023 Employer Nomination Form and accompanying recommendation letter written on the organization’s letterhead, both signed by the co-op employer representative. This must be emailed separately, directly from the nominating co-op employer representative to iSchool Co-op Education Manager Jane Devine Mejia [jane.devine@ubc.ca]
